Chinese physicians would crushed smallpox scabs into powder, then breathe it in through the nose thus the beginning of vaccines.

Ancient

◆ 429 BCE. Though there was no knowledge of antibodies in ancient Greece, physicians at the time were beginning to understand that getting infected with certain viruses could later prevent re-infections. For example, in 429 BCE, Greek historian Thucydides recorded that people who survived the smallpox epidemic in Athens were safe from re-infection.

Medieval

◆ 900-1000 AD. The first precursor to a modern vaccination, however, occurred in China. The Chinese were the first to develop a primitive form of a vaccine around the 10th century, according to the NHS. Known as variolation or inoculation, the method was developed to prevent smallpox — a destructive disease that frequently plagued Europe and Asia in the Middle Ages. Chinese physicians discovered that when healthy people were exposed to smallpox scab tissue, they were less likely to get infected with the disease later on (or if they did, it was a much milder, less dangerous version). The most common form of inoculation in China was to crush smallpox scabs into powder, then breathe it in through the nose.

◆ Early 1700s. Until the 18th century, inoculation was a practice largely confined to China, India, Turkey, and other eastern countries. Lady Mary Montagu, an aristocrat and the wife of England's ambassador to Turkey, is credited as being the first to bring attention to the practice in the Western world. In 1715, Montagu had gone through her own bout of smallpox, and had been disfigured as a result. After learning about inoculation during her time in Turkey, she was determined to protect her six-year-old son from the disease through inoculation.

"The smallpox, so fatal, and so general amongst us, is [in Turkey] entirely harmless by the invention of [inoculation]," Montagu wrote to a friend. "There is a set of old women who make it their business to perform the operation every autumn... The old woman comes with a nut-shell full of the matter of the best sort of smallpox, and asks what veins you please to have opened..."

◆ In 1721, Montagu had her two-year-old daughter inoculated, marking the first inoculation in England. News of the practice began to spread and be accepted by Western European physicians, though many people remained skeptical. Smallpox inoculation was still dangerous and killed about 2-3 percent of those injected with small amounts of the virus.

◆ 1742. In Letters on the English, Voltaire wrote about inoculation in the hopes of convincing his fellow French people to embrace the method. "The Circassian women have, from time immemorial, communicated the small-pox to their children when not above six months old by making an incision in the arm, and by putting into this incision a pustule, taken carefully from the body of another child,” he wrote. “This pustule produces the same effect in the arm it is laid in as yeast in a piece of dough...”

Voltaire goes on to argue that the French should be more open-minded toward the idea of inoculation, which was already standard practice in England to prevent smallpox. He continues: “I am informed that the Chinese have practiced inoculation these hundred years, a circumstance that argues very much in its favor, since they are thought to be the wisest and best governed people in the world. The Chinese, indeed, do not communicate this distemper by inoculation, but at the nose, in the same manner as we take snuff. This is a more agreeable way, but then it produces the like effects; and proves at the same time that had inoculation been practiced in France it would have saved the lives of thousands.”

◆ 1777. Because smallpox was such a destructive disease, even George Washington ordered mandatory inoculation for troops who hadn’t survived smallpox before.

◆ 1796. Enter Edward Jenner, an English physician and scientist who would later become known as the “father of immunology” due to his pioneering vaccination work. In the 1760s, Jenner learned that in the countryside, dairy workers would often be infected with cowpox — a similar, but much milder, disease than smallpox which is in the same Orthopox virus family — and because of this, they would never be infected with smallpox. Jenner decided to experiment with this phenomenon, and he took pus from a person infected with cowpox then rubbed it into the scratched arm of an 8-year-old boy. The boy never caught smallpox. This ushered in a new, safer method of inoculation.

◆ 1840. During the next decades, Jenner’s method of cowpox inoculation — which was soon dubbed “vaccination” (from Variolae vaccinae, meaning smallpox of the cow) — grew more popular and soon overtook that of smallpox inoculation, as the former was much safer. Smallpox inoculation then simply became known as variolation, referring to smallpox (Variola). For some time, both vaccination and variolation were available, but governments soon began arguing that only vaccination was safe. In 1840, England banned variolation.

◆ 1880s. Like many scientific breakthroughs, the development of a vaccine for chicken cholera and anthrax happened somewhat accidentally. French chemist and microbiologist Louis Pasteur was working at the time on learning more about chicken or fowl cholera. Pasteur usually introduced lab cultures of the bacteria into his lab chickens, resulting in their deaths. But once, while on vacation, he left cultures of the bacteria lying around idly. Upon his return, he exposed the chicken to the bacteria, without knowing the bacteria were weakened or dead. The chickens didn’t die from the disease like before. Even when he injected the same chickens with a potent bacterial culture afterwards, they were protected from disease. Pasteur realized this was a form of inoculation against fowl cholera, and he used the same method for an anthrax vaccine.

◆ 1881. This was a seminal year for vaccine development. Pasteur staged a public demonstration in which he inoculated 24 sheep, one goat, and six cows against anthrax, and left another group of farm animals unvaccinated. Several weeks later, he exposed them all to anthrax bacilli, then allowed the crowd to regather two days later. All of the vaccinated animals survived, in comparison to the control group which did not survive. Within a few years, Pasteur developed a rabies vaccine as well using the same inoculation method.

◆ 1885-Louis Pasteur’s rabies vaccine was the next to make an impact on human disease.

◆ 1901-Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research (RIMR) was created in 1901 through an endowment by the despised Oil Baron, John D. Rockefeller. William Welch was selected to serve as chairman of the advisory medical board of the RIMR. Several years later Welch also became a trustee to the Carnegie Institution in 1906 and chairman of the executive committee in 1909 making him the "...greatest Influential of medicine and biology and a leading figure in the physical sciences as well.

◆ 1901-2019-Vaccines Morphed into Rockefeller's "Weapon of Mass Destruction"
Mercury, Thimerosal, Aluminum, Formaldehyde, Monosodium-glutamate were added to vaccines formulas.

◆ 1913-The Rockefeller Foundation, founded in 1913, poured $25 million dollars of support into the molecular biology program of the United States between the years 1932 and 1959. The extent of its influence during this intensive period, however, went far beyond simple funding. The Foundation's molecular biology program permeated the academic infrastructures of all of the critical institutions, with Rockefeller trustees holding top administrative positions in universities. Officers of the foundation created an informal yet de facto peer review system, with scientific advisors providing them detailed knowledge of academic traffic and scientists and administrators consulting their judgment on academic appointments, reputations, personalities, travel, and potential projects.

◆ 1920-, Thimerosal which consists of approximately 50 percent ethyl mercury, has been used as a vaccine preservative since the early 1920s. As the numbers of mandated vaccines have steadily grown, the quantity of mercury has also grown, culminating in the 1990s, when children commonly received 187.5 micrograms of mercury during their first six months of life (62.5 mcgs at two months, again at four months, and again at six months). At current safety limits set by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA)(1), which allows a maximum of 0.1 mcg of mercury per kilogram of body weight per day, children during the ◆ 1928-Henry Kumm joined the International Health Division of the Rockefeller Foundation for Medical Research. During the Second World War, Kumm experimented with larvicides containing DDT, a known neurotoxin often related to polio-like symptoms, to control the spread of malaria in Italy. The pesticide DDT is often implicated as a likely cause of the polio epidemic in the 1950s, livestock and crops were heavily sprayed with DDT in the 1950s.

According to the Medical Archives at John Hopkins, "In 1951, he resigned from the Rockefeller Foundation to accept a position as assistant director of research at the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. He conducted field trials in the study of gamma globulin and the Salk vaccine and became the director of research in 1954. Rejoining the Rockefeller Foundation in 1959.

◆ 1930 the Rockefeller Foundation provided financial support to the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute of Anthropology, Human Heredity, and Eugenics, which later inspired and conducted eugenics experiments in the Third Reich.

The Rockefeller Foundation funded Nazi racial studies even after it was clear that this research was being used to rationalize the demonizing of Jews and other groups. Up until 1939 the Rockefeller Foundation was funding research used to support Nazi racial science studies at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute of Anthropology, Human Heredity, and Eugenics (KWIA.) Reports submitted to Rockefeller did not hide what these studies were being used to justify, but Rockefeller continued the funding and refrained from criticizing this research so closely derived from Nazi ideology. The Rockefeller Foundation did not alert "the world to the nature of German science and the racist folly" that German anthropology promulgated, and Rockefeller funded, for years after the passage of the 1935 Nuremberg racial laws.

The Rockefeller Foundation, along with the Carnegie Institution, was the primary financier for the Eugenics Record Office, until 1939

◆ 1930-1950-Hilary Koprowski, Polish-born virologist, found work with the Rockefeller Foundation in Rio de Janeiro researching yellow fever. After World War II, Koprowski worked for Lederle Laboratories where he was assigned to research the poliovirus. His boss at Lederle was Herald Cox who was also trained at the Rockefeller Institute. In 1950 Koprowski secretly tested his live-virus vaccine on special needs children at Letchworth Village, a place for the "epileptic and feeble-minded." After testing the vaccine on children, Koprowski moved on to Africa to further test his polio vaccine. A strong correlation exists between the testing the Oral Polio Vaccine Koprowski developed and the appearance of HIV/AIDS in Africa

◆ 1933-Barbara McClintock, the 1983 Nobel Laureate "Corn Lady," was the first to discover genetic mobility in the so-called "jumping genes" in the 1930s in her work with corn. In a publication in World Medicine in 1971, scientists at the University of Geneva reported on experiments in which frog hearts were dipped into bacterial suspensions, resulting in a high percentage of bacterial RNA-DNA hybridization in the frog heart cells. The article concluded: "The implications of this work on transfection are enormous, for the Geneva work suggests that this phenomenon is going on the whole time – even in our own bodies..."

As purely genetic material, it would be expected that viruses are more prone to the process of jumping genes than other microorganisms. A report in Virus Research, (23) (1987) tends to support this hypothesis: In a study of 24 passages of a nuclear polyhedrosis virus through cell cultures, there were both genetic insertions and deletions in the virus, meaning that the virus both donated genetic material to the culture media and received genetic material from the culture media.

As found in a well-researched book Fowl! Bird Flu: It's Not What You Think by Dr. Sherri Tenpenny, (24) a virus called "endogenous avian retrovirus," or EAV, has an associated enzyme called reverse transcriptase, which acts by copying RNA into DNA, the reverse of the normal flow of genetic information. Knowing how reverse transcriptase works in living cells, it is possible that vaccines containing reverse transcriptase are weaving viral genes (genes contaminated by prior culture media) into human DNA. As recently as 1999, Tsang et al also detected the presence of reverse transcriptase in measles and mumps vaccines. (25)

It is ironic that, with the potential hazards of the flu vaccine listed above, there are three published studies showing little if any effect on either the incidence or death rate from influenza. As one example, father and son statisticians, David and Mark Geier, showed that although the flu vaccine rate tripled per capita between 1979 and 2000, there was negligible change in either the incidence or death rate per capita during these years.

◆ 1935-Paul Offit writes in his book, The Cutter Incident, “[Tom Rivers] was head of the laboratory for the study of viral diseases at the Rockefeller Institute... By 1935 the Rockefeller Institute was the center for viral research in the United States. Almost everyone who trained in the field of virology trained in Thomas River’s laboratory.”

◆ 1950-Hilary Koprowski, Polish-born virologist, found work with the Rockefeller Foundation in Rio de Janeiro researching yellow fever. After World War II, Koprowski worked for Lederle Laboratories where he was assigned to research the poliovirus. His boss at Lederle was Herald Cox who was also trained at the Rockefeller Institute. ◆ 1968-Rockefeller Foundation acknowledged funding the development of so-called “anti-fertility vaccines” and their implementation on a mass-scale. From page 51 onward we read: “(...) several types of drugs are known to diminish male fertility, but those that have been tested have serious problems of toxicity. Very little work is in progress on immunological methods, such as vaccines, to reduce fertility, and much more research is required if a solution is to be found here.”

◆ 1983-VACCINATIONS: PART I – MEDICAL RESEARCH ON SIDS AND EPIDEMICS by Scheibner, Viera, Ph.D.

Viera Scheibner is a retired principal research scientist with a doctorate in natural sciences. During her distinguished career, she has published three books and 90 scientific papers in prestigious scientific journals. Since the mid-80’s, she has done extensive research into vaccines and vaccinations. Her first research was in the area of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS). She wasn’t even studying vaccinations, but she stumbled onto a relationship between SIDS and vaccinations that lead to a very deep study into vaccination literature in medical journals. In 1983, she published her book on the results of her research Vaccination: The Medical Assault on the Immune System. She often provides expert reports for court cases involving immunizations and vaccine-damaged individuals throughout the world.

◆ 1980s Federal purchases of vaccines nearly tripled under President Bush, growing from $98.2 million in 1988 to $297 million in 1992. Bush also added $46 million to improve immunization delivery to preschool children.

◆ 1986 The National Vaccine Injury Compensation Program was established to ensure the manufacturers weren’t liable. This put the liability on the government to handle all injury and death related vaccine cases behind the scenes, while taxpayers footed the bill.

◆ 1990s the work on anti-fertility vaccines went in overdrive, especially in third-world nations, as did the funding provided by the deep pockets of the Rockefeller Foundation.

◆ 1990s commonly received up to 100 times the safe dose of mercury on three separate occasions during their first six months. According to standard toxicology texts, the brain is a prime target for mercury. So it is not surprising that the current epidemic of childhood autism and learning disabilities reached their peaks during the 1990s, with one in 150 American children now recognized as autistic. Currently the U.S. Center for Disease Control (CDC) indicates that nine million American children under age 18 have been diagnosed with asthma, whereas in 1979 asthma affected approximately two million children under 18.

◆ 1992 2013 CDC study in JAMA Pediatrics shows a 33% drop in autism spectrum disorder in Denmark following the 1992 removal of thimerosal from Danish vaccines.

◆ 1993, the National Center for Immunization Program was created to operate in Atlanta under the CDC.

◆ 1993-1993, WHO announced a “birth-control vaccine” for “family planning”. Published research shows that by 1976 WHO researchers had conjugated tetanus toxoid (TT) with human chorionic gonadotropin (hCG) producing a “birth-control” vaccine. Conjugating TT with hCG causes pregnancy hormones to be attacked by the immune system. Expected results are abortions in females already pregnant and/or infertility in recipients not yet impregnated. Repeated inoculations prolong infertility. Currently WHO researchers are working on more potent anti-fertility vaccines using recombinant DNA. WHO publications show a long-range purpose to reduce population growth in unstable “less developed countries”. By November 1993 Catholic publications appeared saying an abortifacient vaccine was being used as a tetanus prophylactic. In November 2014, the Catholic Church asserted that such a program was underway in Kenya. Three independent Nairobi accredited biochemistry laboratories tested samples from vials of the WHO tetanus vaccine being used in March 2014 and found hCG where none should be present. In October 2014, 6 additional vials were obtained by Catholic doctors and were tested in 6 accredited laboratories. Again, hCG was found in half the samples. Subsequently, Nairobi’s AgriQ Quest laboratory, in two sets of analyses, again found hCG in the same vaccine vials that tested positive earlier but found no hCG in 52 samples alleged by the WHO to be vials of the vaccine used in the Kenya campaign 40 with the same identifying batch numbers as the vials that tested positive for hCG. Given that hCG was found in at least half the WHO vaccine samples known by the doctors involved in administering the vaccines to have been used in Kenya, our opinion is that the Kenya “anti-tetanus” campaign was reasonably called into question by the Kenya Catholic Doctors Association as a front for population growth reduction.

◆ 1994, the Clintons masterminded the mandatory Vaccines for Children Program – The same year, was the last U.S. measles “outbreak” resulting in zero deaths and 36% of the 958 cases chose not to vaccinate citing religious or philosophic reasons

◆ 1999-thimerosal removed from vaccines as a precautionary measure. (The flu vaccine for children contains thimerosal)

Trace amounts of the antibiotic neomycin are added to some vaccine

◆ 2002-during this so-called phase-out period, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) actually added two doses of mercury-containing influenza vaccines to the list of inoculations urged for all babies 6 to 23 months of age.

◆ 2003 was mercury finally removed from the routinely mandated vaccines (DTaP, Hib, and Hepatitis B), though as 2019 mercury does remain in most brands of flu and tetanus booster vaccines.

Although significant numbers of new autism cases are still taking place, in 2006, three years following removal of mercury from routine infant vaccines, a decline in new cases of autism has been reported for the first time since the commencement of autism statistics many years ago. Can anyone now seriously question the role of mercury in the current epidemic of childhood autism and learning disabilities?

◆ 2005- The vaccine manufacturers' product inserts and the CDC's schedule resulted in a substantial increase of aluminum-containing vaccine doses—from 10 to 16 injections—that babies are still mandated to receive by 18 months of age.

Aluminum

Does the addition of aluminum really “help vaccines work better?” What is the real reason it’s added to vaccines, how does it affect the immune system, and what link is there between aluminum and autoimmune diseases?

These issues and others were recently addressed in an interview by iHealthTube.com with Dr. Suzanne Humphries, M.D., board certified internist, nephrologist (nephrology is the study of the kidneys and their diseases), and author of Dissolving Illusions and Rising from the dead. Dr. Humphries explained that while vaccines do leave an infant with a “super-charged immune system” for a time, this is not a healthy state for the immune system to be in.

There are two types of vaccines, Humphries explained: killed vaccines and live vaccines.

Live vaccines simulate the disease in the immune system more successfully than dead vaccines, and have a better influence on the immune system – that is, Dr. Humphries pointed out, if they don’t kill you or give you encephalitis. It is the dead vaccines to which aluminum is generally added as an adjuvant.

Dr. Humphries explained the reason for the addition of aluminum as follows:

“When it comes to these sub-unit, or killed vaccines, the infant immune system just won’t respond to it. ... There’s a program in that infant immune system to make that infant anti-inflammatory, and there’s a reason for it, because that infant is becoming acquainted with a world full of microbes. ...

“Imagine if we reacted to all the microbes that we’re getting in our mother’s breast milk, colonizing our gut and landing on our skin and our throats and our ears – we would be an autoimmune nightmare.

“And so, there’s something called molecular mimicry, which pretty much God put into the system of us relating to the world, in that the proteins in microbes very similarly mimic our own proteins in the blood vessels and the heart and the brain and many different places, depending on which microbe you’re talking about. You throw aluminum into that vaccine and molecular mimicry becomes a problem and that baby’s immune system gets ramped up.”

So, basically, aluminum is added to vaccines to short-circuit a vitally important element of the protective measures of a baby’s immune system.

This temporary super-charging of the immune system does not promote long-term health. What aluminum in vaccines does do, is trigger an allergic response in most people.

Such vaccines also do not build up the immune system to fight disease better.

Humphries cited a study in Denmark which examined hospitalization rates for all sorts of infections in children under the age of 4 who had received either live or dead vaccines.

The research team determined that if a killed vaccine had been a child’s last vaccine, it generally had a detrimental effect on their overall immune response to other infections.

As Dr. Humphries noted:

“These killed vaccines skew the immune system and make a person more susceptible to other infections. So, while it might protect you from pertussis for a short period of time, you could be susceptible to RSV, croup, or other kinds of infections that could land you in the hospital. So, again, to me that’s not a very good trade off.”

And aluminum’s devastating affect on the body’s natural immune defense system helps explain the surge in autoimmune diseases in recent years.

◆ 2006. The first HPV vaccine-Planned Parenthood's dream

Adverse events were, according to the CDC, 6 percent were serious and 32 deaths were reported.

- Recent reductions in HPV infection prevalence among young women in the US cannot be said to be due to introduction of Gardasil vaccine in 2006 and use of HPV vaccines by pre-teen and teenage girls since then; the data clearly shows that unvaccinated girls had the best outcome
- In 2007-2010, HPV prevalence dropped 27.3 percent in the unvaccinated girls, but only declined by 5.8 percent in the vaccinated group. In four out of five different measures, the unvaccinated girls had a lower incidence of HPV
- According to Merck's own research before Gardasil was licensed, if you've been exposed to HPV strains 16 or 18 prior to receiving Gardasil vaccine, you could increase your risk of precancerous lesions by 44.6 percent.
- Judicial Watch has received previously withheld documents from the DDHS, which reveal that the National Vaccine Injury Compensation Program has awarded $5,877,710 to 49 victims for harm resulting from the HPV vaccine

◆ 2013 CDC study in JAMA Pediatrics shows a 33% drop in autism spectrum disorder in Denmark following the 1992 removal of thimerosal from Danish vaccines. That paper is among 37 peer-reviewed studies linking thimerosal to the autism epidemic.

◆ 2013-Judicial Watch has investigated this atrocity involving the profitable vaccine manufactured by pharmaceutical giant Merck and promoted as a miracle shot that can prevent certain strains of cervical cancer caused by Human Papillomavirus (HPV). The reality is that droves of government records uncovered by Judicial Watch show that Gardasil has been linked to thousands of adverse reactions and debilitating side effects that the government wants to keep secret.

They include seizures, blindness, paralysis, speech problems, pancreatitis, short-term memory loss and dozens of deaths. Incredibly, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) fast-tracked Gardasil's approval and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) continues recommending it for girls starting at age 9. JW launched its probe in 2007 and had to sue for the records in the face of Obama administration stonewalling. In 2008 JW published a special report detailing Gardasil's government approval process, side effects, safety concerns and marketing practices.

Earlier this year JW uncovered documents from the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) revealing that its National Vaccine Injury Compensation Program (VICP) has awarded nearly $6 million to dozens of victims in claims made against the very HPV vaccine it is pushing on children. To date 200 claims have been filed with VICP, with barely half adjudicated, according to the documents obtained by JW.

Incredibly, the vaccine has been shoved down the throats of unsuspecting victims by government at every level. Some 20 states have passed laws requiring funding for Gardasil or education programs promoting it. Among states that have enacted Gardasil-related measures are California, Colorado, Indiana, Iowa, Virginia, Maine and Utah. In all 50 states, tax dollars help pay for the costly shots ($360) because the CDC makes them available through the federal Vaccines for Children program.

This week, as part of National Immunization Awareness Month, the CDC is promoting a 13-minute DVD endorsing the three-dose HPV vaccine series. The video, designed to reach “underserved areas” and “minority populations,” features young women and healthcare professionals touting the vaccine. It lies about side effects, saying that there’s “little pain and discomfort” and “dizziness and stomach aches.” Just a few weeks ago JW reported that the Obama administration spent $1.2 million to promote Gardasil among low-income and minority girls. The goal is to “increase HPV vaccine uptake in a low income ethnic minority population, according to the government grant description. The campaign involves conducting a “culturally sensitive” intervention — in English, Spanish, Cantonese, Mandarin, Armenian and Korean—to increase HPV vaccine receipt among “underserved, high risk girls in Los Angeles.”

Notably absent in this latest DVD and all other Gardasil promotional campaigns are the potentially lethal side effects documented in the government’s own Vaccine Adverse Event Reporting System (VAERS). The data is kept by the FDA and CDC as a vaccine safety surveillance program that can be easily accessed by the public yet Judicial Watch had to sue for information related to Gardasil.

Priests throughout Kenya reportedly are advising their congregations to refuse the vaccine.

◆ 2014-Former CDC Head and Current Merck President Caught in Fraud Scandal

A top researcher working for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), along with Focus Autism Foundation’s Dr. Brian Hooker, alleged that the CDC has been involved with vaccine research data manipulation reigniting the MMR and autism link. The alleged changes in data reportedly covered-up a higher incidence of autism in African-American boys receiving their MMR vaccine on schedule. The study in question was published in Pediatrics and is entitled, “Age at first measles-mumps-rubella vaccination in children with autism and school-matched control subjects: a population-based study in metropolitan Atlanta.”

Dr. Hooker says he acquired related documents via a Congressional request from the chairman of the House Oversight and Government Reform Committee. Citing the two sources, Hooker accused the CDC of widespread manipulation of scientific data pertaining to MMR vaccine safety.

◆ 2019-UPS partnering with drug giants to inject you with vaccines in your own home... pilot project

◆ 2019, April 23rd-Shocking MMR Vaccine Trial Results Released Via FOIA

When the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request for the release of trial results of MMR vaccines shocking results were the small number of children included in the trials and the short period of time the children were monitored, but there were a shocking percentage of children participating in the study suffering from gastrointestinal illness and upper-respiratory illness after receiving the Measles, Mumps & Rubella shot.

◆ 2019 May-Next year, Oregon dentists will be allowed to give their patients immunization shots. House Bill 2220 will allow dentists to give any vaccinations -- from measles to HPV and annual flu shots.

◆ 2019-Just how big is the vaccine industry? Revenues are expected to reach nearly $60 billion by 2020 and $100 billion by 2025, which is almost double what they drove in back in 2014. Why? Because of the increase in infectious diseases, not to mention the fact that they have more than 120 new products in the development pipeline.

◆ Conclusion- Western medicine has some good points, it's great in an emergency, but it's high time people realized that today's mainstream medicine (western medicine or allopathy), with its focus on drugs, radiation and surgery, is at its foundation a Rockefeller creation. The Rockefellers, of course, are one of the most rich and powerful families of the elite black nobility. Behind their spurious facade of philanthropy, they are power-hungry tyrants intent on owning the entire world, and depopulating it through eugenics-based programs like forced sterilization, water fluoridation, abortions and vaccinations. They have either majorly or fully created (and still dominate) the United Nations, the World Health Organization, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Trilateral Commission, Planned Parenthood and many, many other organizations that either rule the world or influence culture to a large extent. This is a history of how they hijacked vaccines, turning them into a “Weapon of Mass Destruction”
